DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 4/29/2009 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

1. Claims 1, 8, 9, 11, 12, and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The specification as originally filed does not include support for a solid (not hollow) microneedle tip.

Drawings

The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the solid (ie not hollow) tip must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Sherman et al (US 2002/0020688).

Sherman et al disclose in Figure 11 a microneedle device comprising a first major surface (140), a plurality of microneedles (182, 184) formed of polymers (paragraphs 0015 and 0016) comprising a base that is tapered to a flat truncated tip distal the base. Sherman et al disclose in paragraph 0088 that the microneedle can comprise a solid flat tip. Sherman et al further disclose in paragraphs 0075 and 0076 the flat tip capable of comprising an area of between 20 and 100 square micrometers and the base are capable of being 900 square micrometers or more, and the height base ratio being capable of being 3:1 or more. Sherman et al also disclose in these paragraphs a microneedle device capable of having a cross-sectional area of no more than 25% of the base on a plane located at a distance of 0.98h from the base.

Sherman et al disclose in paragraph 0009 the method of using the microneedle device comprising the step of contacting the skin and forcing the microneedle device against the skin.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 4/29/2009 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In response to the 112th rejection, Applicant argues that the specification describes the microneedle as being a frustum of a pyramid and goes on to provide the definition of frustum: "part of a solid, such as a cone or pyramid, between two parallel planes cutting the solid, especially the section between the base and a plane parallel to the base. However, Examiner points Applicant to the definition of 'solid' when taken in a mathematical context as provided by Encarta, wherein the term solid is defined as "three-dimensional: having the three dimensions of length, breadth, and depth, or relating to geometric figures that have three dimensions." Thus, the term 'solid' in the definition of frustum does not necessarily imply that the cone/pyramid/etc actually be solid in the everyday sense of the word (ie not hollow) – but in the definition of frustum the solid is actually meant as a three-dimensional object. Thus, although the Applicant's specification discloses the microneedle as being a frustum, this simply provides support for the fact that the microneedle is a three-dimensional structure.

As to Applicant's arguments regarding the drawings, it is the Examiner's position that it is unclear in the drawings and specification that the top surface 32 is solid. From the drawings it appears that 32 is the top surface of a bore which extends through the microneedle.

As to Applicant's arguments regarding the Sherman reference, Examiner once again argues that Sherman does disclose a flat tip. Although the needle comes to a point at the tip, all the points which lie around the circumference which make up the microneedle lie on the same plane and thus make the tip 'flat.'

Conclusion

All claims are drawn to the same invention claimed in the earlier application and could have been finally rejected on the grounds and art of record in the next Office action if they had been entered in the earlier application. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL even though it is a first action in this case. See MPEP § 706.07(b). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no, however, event will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
